

My Beloved Colleagues Assalamu Alaikum,

FIVE PHASES OF DR. CEMERLANG'S TEACHING METHOD

PHASE FIVE (Last Phase)

Dr. Cemerlang conducts her class in a rewarding, student-centered and stimulating manner. She provides real life opportunities and helps her students to use the acquired knowledge meaningfully and apply it in real life. She constantly provides reinforcement and feedback to her students to keep them motivated in the classroom. Dr. Cemerlang creates positive feelings among her students about their accomplishments so that making them happy and feel important. Dr. Cemerlang discusses with her students their evidence of success and encourages them to continue to shine. Once students are motivated, satisfaction is created.

QUESTION:

Why it is so important for Dr. Cemerlang to gain her students' Satisfaction in the class?

ANSWER:

Dr. Cemerlang is convinced that based on sound scientific evidences, Attention , Relevancy , Confidence and satisfaction create motivation. Motivation creates Satisfaction. Once Motivation is lost, satisfaction is diminished. If there is no Satisfaction, Learning does not take place.

REFERENCES

Myers, S.(2012). Students' Perceptions of Classroom Group Work as a Function of Group Member Selection. Communication Teacher, v26 n1 p50-64

Alkhatnai, M.(2011). Learning Styles of EFL Saudi College-Level Students in On-Line and Traditional Educational Environments. ProQuest LLC, Ph.D. Dissertation, Indiana University of Pennsylvania.

Pittenger, A.; Doering, A.(2011). Influence of Motivational Design on Completion Rates in Online Self-Study Pharmacy-Content Courses. Distance Education, v31 n3 p275-293

Robb, C.(2011). The Impact of Motivational Messages on Student Performance in Community College Online Courses. ProQuest LLC, Ed.D. Dissertation, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign

© Dr. Qais Faryadi (FST)

USIM Terus Maju